

Sample baby shower text messages

- The news that you are soon to be parents was heartening. This is what my ears have been tingling to listen to. Hearty congratulations.
- “God cannot go everywhere, so he made mothers.” God bless you to face all the challenges with many, many sweet moments to cherish as you slowly step into motherhood.
- It does not matter if your little angel is made up of “sugar and spice and everything nice” or “frogs and snails and puppy-dog’s tails.” Your baby is sure to brighten your days.
- The long awaited day will come soon. Whatever be the day of the week, may your child be “bonny and blithe, and good and gay”, like a “child that is born on the Sabbath day.”
- I have been counting the days from the day you announced your good news and I am still counting. Time seems to crawl, I just can’t wait to hold the infant in my arms.
- Parenting is a blessing. We promise our help and support to face the challenges as you step into this blessed transition.
- Your child is fortunate to be a part of your home, sweet home. Can’t wait to see him, can you?
