SCREENPLAY TEMPLATE

By

Christopher P. Jacobs

Shortcuts (macros must be enabled)
--Select different styles from style menu if macros don't work--

New scene slugline   alt-n (automatically numbered)
Scene description   alt-s
Character   alt-c
Dialogue   alt-d
Parenthetical   alt-p
Optical Transition   alt-o
Title   alt-t
> (Be sure to include or insert section break before first page of script to allow page numbering to apply to only script pages)

[Scene renumbering   ctrl-# (ctrl-shift-3) on slugline to change]

1. INT. KITCHEN. DAY.

   A WOMAN pours her morning coffee with a slow sigh.

                                          DISSOLVE TO

2. INT. OFFICE. DAY

   The SCREENWRITER sits at his desk, staring at a computer screen. A female OFFICE ASSISTANT enters the room.

                    SCREENWRITER
            Did you find it?

                    OFFICE ASSISTANT
            Well, I...
                 (She shifts her feet nervously)
            ...that is, it wasn't...

                    SCREENWRITER
                 (sighing)
            Didn't think so. Go grab me some coffee, then.

3. EXT. OFFICE. DAY

   A breeze blows through the trees that shadow the entryway to the modern suburban office building.